Blue Envelope at Public Safety

In 2025, Longmont Public Safety teamed up with about 12 nearby law enforcement agencies to kick off the Blue Envelope Program.

This program, which started in Connecticut in 2020, is all about helping people who have communication challenges when they interact with emergency services. It's especially geared towards those on the autism spectrum, making it easier for them to communicate during traffic stops and other situations, ultimately helping to ease anxiety and cut down on misunderstandings.

Many park restrooms close each fall in advance of winter's frost to prevent damage to the above-ground plumbing. When restrooms are closed, no-fee park shelter reservations are only required for gatherings lasting more than 2 hours. Special permits are always required if you are hosting a public event, charging admission, or serving or selling alcohol.
