Meet Stephen Graham Jones, Award-Winning Author of The Only Good Indians

The Library @ the Museum welcomes New York Times bestselling author Stephen Graham

Jones to the stage for an intimate author talk, moderated by Lafayette Poet Laureate and Library staff member ZBassSpeaks. Jones is the author of nearly 35 books, a member of the Blackfeet Nation, and a Professor of Distinction at CU Boulder. His horror novel, "The Only Good Indians", earned starred reviews and numerous awards, including the Ray Bradbury Prize. His writing blends sharp, fast-paced storytelling with experimental twists, suspense, humor, and emotion. Join us Sunday, Nov. 2, from 2:30 to 4:30 pm at the Longmont Museum. A book signing will follow. Register at bit.ly/LibAuthorTalks or call 303-651-8472.

Senior Peer Support Services

Attention Seniors! Aging can be tough. You may be facing grief, loneliness, caregiver stress, anxiety or depression. Consider Peer Support Services.

Peer Support is a FREE and confidential service offered at the Longmont Senior Center. You are matched with a trained senior – with shared life experiences – who can listen without judgement. It is a proven system of structured support.

For more information, call 303-774-4497 or email Kayleigh.Schrenbeck@LongmontColorado.gov.

WHAT'S AN EASEMENT?

Passing Through

Why is there a utility worker in your yard? Your property probably has an easement – a strip of land that allows crews to do necessary work such as an electric line repair or a NextLight™ fiber extension. To answer a few common questions:

How long does an easement last?

Easements don't expire.

Can you let me know you're coming?

Most utilities knock on the door as a courtesy, but the easement is there to let workers come when they need to, do their work, and be gone as quickly as possible.

Can I use the easement?

If it doesn't interfere with activities that need to happen in the easement and isn't forbidden by City code, yes. But be careful – anything placed in the easement is there at the owner's risk.

How do I know if a worker should be there?

It's always OK to ask for identification. City employees will carry a photo ID with a phone number you can call for verification.

Remember, these visits only happen when they're needed. After all, having an easement should be ... well, easy!
